

FDA Disclaimer

FDA prohibits bath and body companies from making health-related claims about our products. I am not a medical or healthcare professional and do not claim that the use of my products may have a positive effect on pre-existing physical and/or mental health conditions. The information in my listings pertains to the properties of specific ingredients used in the product.

These statements have not been evaluated by the FDA. Our products are not intended to diagnose, treat, cure, or prevent any disease. As with anything, you should do research on herbs and whether they may cause an adverse reaction to you personally with things you may be taking.